TOM JONES says he is Ad Welgast's luck charm. "Wolgast has never had an injury when I have been with him. Whenever he gets away from me, something happens. Now, if I had been with him in the east, he wouldn't have broken his arm again. When Ad starts boxing, all he thinks of is tearing into the other fellow. His bones are none too strong and the strain he puts on them by 'slamming' the other fellow instead of hitting him with a diving punch causes the BONESETTER REESE, last hope D of the sore-arm baseball brigade, has left his old home in Youngstown, O., and is touring the west. Just now he is in San Diego taking in the Panama-California exposition. He will start east in about a week, via El Paso, and it is expected he will stop off here for a few days. Bonesetter might establish a prosperous business in Juarez if he can handle war wounds as well as baseball wounds.

JOHN McCLOSKEY says he has no hankering for the presidency of the Southern league, for which his name has been suggested by several sporting writern. "The late judge Kavanaugh was a wonderful haseball genius," declares McCloskey, "and he performed wonders for the league. The man who succeeds him will be measured by judge Kavan-augh's standards and I do not feel for the leadership of the Southern league, in my opinion, is James H. O'Rourke. I am more of a team leader than I am a league leader. It takes a diplomat to lead the Southern league and I am afraid I might be tempted to express myself rather clearly at times, and no diplomat does that,"

THIS was the day set for the Willard-Johnson fight. Big Jess is in Los Angeles today while Johnnon in in Havana. No chance for a battle today unless they fight over the telegraph wire. At latest reports, Jack Curley was still in possession of the promotion purse, but it contains $18,000 less today than it did a few menths ago when the fight was first planned. And poor Jack was figuring on being able to split up $100,000 profit tonight! Such is life in the ring game.

"BASKETBALL umpire mobbed" is the headline in an eastern paper on a dispatch from Columbus, Min, telling of the action of Mis-souri university students on the calling of fouls by umpire C. E. Quig-ley, of the National league. El Paso basketball officials have been punched but local fans haven't yet quite reached the Missouri stage.

TALKING of basketball-don't forget the game at the Y. M. C. A. this evening between the champion "Y" five and the crack Bow-man all-stars. It should be one of DITTSBURG sport writers are quite up to date. Last Tuesday, they announced that Jack Johnson would be sailing from Havana next day for Tampico and that he would be brought to about 50 miles from Juarer. There, according to the story, a Mexican burro was to be waiting and Jack was to make the rest of the journey on burro back. They overlooked one point—who's going to hald up Jack's long legs so they won't drag along the ground.

NEW YORK baseball critics declare the Boston Braves are a woofully weak team and that they will not be in the first division of the National league this year. Let me see, didn't the New York and Philadelphia scribes tell their readers, the first week in last October, that the Braves wouldn't stand a chance against the Athletics in the JOHN McGRAW has 18 pitchers at Marlin. Big league teams will have to cut to 21 mem this season. Well, McGraw can send his surplus heavers to the Rio Grande association this year.

IF JACK CURLEY manages to bring Jack Johnson to Juarez from Havana we can start some stories about Jess Willard being brought here from Los Angeles by acroplane. Maybe Curley had that figured out and sent Jess to the coast. Jack Curley is strong for

They Will Find Fans Going On a Strike, Is Belief; Revision of Prices Should Be Downward; Salaries of Ball Players Will Be Reduced to the Proper Level Sometime Soon, It Is Thought.

THE baseball magnetes would go into hankrupter in a month if they attempted to put into force the 52 admission price that Joe Lannin, owner of the Red Sox, predicted in case the baseball may continued.

A 12 admission price would be equivalent to a houter of the magnetes wouldn't stand for it—not for a single day. The magnetes right now tax the fame a mighty stiff price and soy attempt to boost it would mean a boylent to boost it would mean a boylent to boost it would mean a boylent of the ball parks.

Lannin if quoted correctly, seems to have the dien that the fame ought to be forced to pay for the cost of a warfare which is the family of the magnetes which is the family of the magnetes of this warfare, it's about time for them to make peace—and make it in a hurry. Just because they are too bullheaded to patch up a truce with the Feds is no reason why the fame should suffer and the fam would be.

the Feds is no reason why the fame should suffer, and the fame won't.

Should Revies Bournward.

The scale of prices at the big league parks if changed at all, should be downward—not upward. The usual range of prices is from 80 cents and represented the second power of these 50 cent seats are not week the price. They are too farmous dependent of the central scene of activit.

Some years are most of the parks in the country had from 1800 to 1800 cent seats. But the magnafes in recent years, became greedy. They reduced the 15 cent area to the lewest possible inthinam and now are selling make of the old time 15 cent seats for doubt he former price.

Basehall Revolution Coming.

A revolution will come some day in hasehall and when it does the admission prices to the hig league parks will be decreased. The 31 and 31.25 seats will be had for 50 or 52 cents and there will be thousands or 15 cents and there will be the seats that command 15 cents are the proportion to his work of cities or 15 cents
